Hasty Words.

Full oft a word that lightly leaves the tongue, Another's breast unconsciously has rung; And were the wound but present to the eye, We'd mourn the pain that solace might defy.

Was it a taunt—perhaps a thoughtless jest?
An idle ripple of the vacant breast?
But tiny shafts may yield a venomed death,
What need, to speed them, but a little breath,

The Bushman thus secures inglorious pay; And words can men, as darts the Ostrich slay; Strange! that the breath providing Nature lend In man alone to work of ruin tends.

We toy with hearts, as if the thousand chords That vibrate to the touch of hasty words, Could jar out discords all the live-long day, Nor any tension cause them to give way.

Oh, strike them gently ! every human breast Is by a secret load of grief opprest: Forbear to add a note of timeless woe, Where discords ever are so prone to flow.

[From the Newark Eagle.] The Old Man to his Wife.

We are growing very old, Kate,
I teel it every day;
The hair upon our temples now,
Is growing thin and gray.
We are not as we were once, Kate;
And yet our hearts are young And yet our hearts are young, And flow'ry dells among.

We are growing very old, Kate, But it is not the age of heart, Though speedily the hour comes on When thou and I must part; When thou and I must part. Kate, As we have ne'er before; Beside our cottage hearth to meet

LADY JANE GREY. BY MRS. LYDIA H. SIGOURNEY.

Lady Jane Grey, who in some of historic annals of England bears th tle of Queen, was the daughter of I ry, Marquis of Dorset, and a part of royal blood, through her mot Frances Brandon, daughter of the P cess Mary, sister of Henry VIII, Queen Dowager of France, at the of her marriage with the Duke of tolk. The subject of this sketch therefore the great grand-daughte Henry VII and Elizabeth of Yor She was born in 1536, and distinguiin infancy and childhood by surpas beauty. To this attraction, she ad many accomplishments; such as ta and proficiency in the use of the dle and pen, skill in music both ins mental and vocal, perfect grace of m ners, and elegance in conversation. Attainments still more profound w hers, and to a critical knowledge of own language, she added the Fr and Italian, Latin and Greek, Heb Chaldee, and Arabic. Learned m. that age assert that she wrote in with facility. These attainments, s fr an inspiring self-conceit, were min with modesty, and embellished by charm of a sweet and serene piety.

Domestic education was in those m irked by strictness of discipline; is remarkable that her own should been particularly characterized by s ness and severity. The 12th of February, 1554, was the time appointed for the execution of her husband and herself. With the early light of that fatal morning, he sent to request a farewell interview. But she felt that such a meeting would distress them both, and impair the fortitude requisite for the awful state that awaited them, by quickening a love of that life they were so soon to leave. Denying her own desires once more to see him whom she tenderly loved, she returned a dissuasive message.

"Such a meeting would add to our affliction. It would disturb the quiet with which we should arm our souls for the stroke of death. Defer it till a few moments have passed. Then we shall meet where unions are severed no more, if we carry nothing terrestrial with us to hinder that eternal rejoicing."

When the beloved of her soul was led by to the scaffold, she testified strong and involuntary emotion. But suppressing it, with surprising self-command, she gave him her farewell from the window, and, like one whose treasures were now in beaven, prepared to follow him. In a brief space, his bleeding form, stretched upon a car, and his severed head, wrapped in a linen cloth, were borne by under the same window she gazed on the fearful spectacle immovably, as one with whom the bitterness of death was past. Then without any tremulousness of hand, she inscribed in her table-book a few lines, which she presented to the Lieutenant of the ower, as a token of grateful acknowledgment for the kindness he had extended to her during her imprisonment,-This parting memento consisted of a sentence in Greek, implying that 'though his slain body might see n to condemn her before men, as the cause of its distruction, his most blessed soul would assert her innocence in the presence of loss is need with shall be name- for you will know that in May next he God;' one in Latin-"That man had destroyed the body, but a merciful God at last sits down, amidst cheers from all lacking tin months, and had he lived till er's side, and she was speaking to him preserved the soul;" and another in English—"That if her fault had deservbeen particularly characterized by sternness and severity. SPEAKING TELEGRAPH. - The French and English journals are at present speculating pon the practicability of turning the elecic telegraph that connects England and rance, via the channel, into a medium of reational intercourse. The modus opidi is this :- A plate of silver and one of suing from the mouth so prepared, are onveyed across the channel by the wirecobably in a whisper, though the account es not say. It has been tried, it is said,

A woman at Liege has just been confinof three children, making twenty-four in ne years, having had three at every atuchment! The husband, who was anxus to perpetuate his name, is much disappinted at all his children being girls.

The Peace of Europe. BY J. G. WHITTIER.

Great peace in Europe ! Order reigns From Tiber's hills to Danube's plain! So say her kings and priests; so say The lying prophets of our day.

Go lay to earth a listening ear ; The tramp of measured marches hear The rolling of the cannon's wheel, The shotted musket's murderous peal, . The night alarm, the scatty's call, . The quick eared spy in but and hall, From Polar sea and Tropic fen The dying grouns of exiled men, The bolted cell, the galley's chains, The scallold smoking with its strins. Order-the hush of broading slaves ! Peace-in the dungeon-vaults and graves !

Oh Eisher! with thy world wide a t And spaces in every corner set, Whose tabled keys of heaven and hell Bolt hard the patriot's prison cell, And open wide the banquet half Where kings and priests hold carnival; Boy Kaiser with thy lip of hes ; Base gambler of Napoleon's crown, Barnacle on his dead renown! Thou, Bourbon Neapolitan, Crowned scandal leathed of God and man; And thou, fell spider of the North! Stretching thy grant feelers forth, Within whose web the freedom dies Of nations eaten up like flies : Speak , Prince and Kaiser, Priest and Czar If this be Peace, pray what is War ?

White angel of the Lord! unmeet That soil accurs'd for thy pure feet, Never in Slavery's desert flows The fountain of thy charmed repose, No tyrant's hand thy chaplet weaves Of lilies and of olive leaves, Not with the wicked shalt thou dwell, Thus saith the Eternal Oracle; Thy home is with the pure and free. Stern herald of thy better day, Before thee, to prepare thy way, The Baptist Shade of Liberty, Gray, scarr'd, and harry-robed, must press With bleeding feet the wilderness! Oa! that its voice might pierce the ear the pen of Wolfe, the author of the burial of Sir John Moore, written after the death of his be loved wife; they are indeed a most touching BEEF, PORK, SAUSAGES, TRIPE, LARD, expression of bereaved affection.

Of princes, trembling while they hear A cry as of the Hebrew seer: REPENT! God's KINGDOM draweth near!

If I had thought thou could'st have died, I might not weep for thee; But I forgot when by thy side, That thou could'st mortal be;

It never through my mind had passed The time would e'er be o'er. That I on thee should look my last, And thou should'st sinile no more!

And still upon that face I look, And think 'twill smile again; And still the thought I cannot brook That I must look in vain; But when I speak, thou dost not say What thou ne'er left'st unsaid; And then I feel, as well I may, Dear Mary ! thou art dead.

If thou could'st stay even as thou art, All cold and all serene. I still might press thy silent heart, And where the smiles have been; While even thy chill, bleak corse I have, Thou seemest still mine own; But as I lay thee in the grave,

I do not think where'er thou art, Thou hast forgoden me; And I, perhaps, may soothe this heart, In thinking, too, of thee; Yet there was round thee such a dawn Of light ne'er seen before. As fancy never could have dra n,

I feel that I'm alone !

And never can restore.

My Mother's Voice.

My mother's voice! how oft doth creep Its cadence on my lonely hours, Like healing sent on wings of sleep, Or dew on the unconscious flowers ! I might forget her melting prayer

While pleasure's pulses madly fly; But in the still, unbroken air, Her gentle tones come stealing by-And years of sin and manhood flee, And leave me at my mother's knee.

BY J. F. K. "

Where the lamp upon the ceiling Throws a flitting ray, See a form, the light revealing, Working while she may. Faint and weary, still she lingers, Long since twilight hues, Pale her face and tired her fingers, She is binding shoes.

Once upon her cheek the roses Glowed with healthful blush, Now upon her face reposes Labor's hectic flush. Ill paid toil from youth's bright flowers Swept the freshening dews, Blighted ere life's evening hours, She is binding shoes.

Hope's bright ray no light can give her, On her pathway lone, From the durkness to deliver, Comes no friendly tone. Hid behind the cloud of sorrow That her life imbues, She can hail no brighter morrow. She is binding shoes.

From her eyes the tear-drops breaking, Wet the hard-pressed seam, And, though still at work, and waking, She is in a dream. On her vision flit the treasures She ne'er feared to lose, Gone are all her childhood's pleasures, She is binding shoes.

Now upon her sight are other Things than present plain, Sisters, brothers, father, mother, Greet her once again. For a step she listens, blushing-Now he comes -- he wooes ! Alas! time's tide again is rushing! She is binding shoes.

From her dream she wakens, starting! The bright hours have flown ! Words of love her lips were parting, When the scene was gone Like a tropic storm uprushing On the sky's bright hues, O'er her vision tears are gushing, She is binding shoes.

When the lamp upon the ceiling Throws a flitting ray, See a form the light revealing, Working while she may. Faint and weary, still she lingers, Long since twilight hues, Pale her face and fired her fingers, She is binding shoes.

DISCOVERY OF A NEW GUANO ISLAND IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.- A new extensive guano deposit has recently been discovered upon an island in the South Pacific Ocean, and is causing considerable speculation in the Commercial circles of London, as we learn from the Shipping Gazette. It appears that several months ago, the fact of the existence of guano in this new locality was to communicated by an old whaling captain his owner, who determined that the knowledge should be kept a secret until more fully substantiated, and if found correct, then to place the discovery before the Shipping interest. With this view, he gave instruc tions to the captain of a vessel he was dispatching upon a voyage round the Horn, to search for the island in the latitude and longitude furnished him, and to report to him all the particulars from the first port he could make. So faithfully and successfully have these orders been fulfilled, that the owner has had the original statement fully confirmed, received samples of the guano taken from the spot by his own captain. These samples have been analyzed by an eminent London chemist, with the following results:

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says; "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the Stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed and digested, just in the same manner is they would be in the human stomach.'

Dr. PEREIRA, in his famous treatise on 'Food and Diet," published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparaion. There are few higher authorities than Dr.

Dr. COMBE, in his valuable writings on the 'Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a liminution of the due quantity of the Gastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia;" and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastri Juice, obtained from the stomachs of living animals, which proved entirely successful.

Dr. GRAHAM, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural diges-

The pots were then taken to the strawberry-bed, and a runner placed in the centre of each, with a small stone to keep it steady. They were watered in dry weather, and have had no other care or culture .-For two or three years, says he, I have had the very finest crops from plants after this method, and those under notice promise well. If the pots are lifted, it will be apparent that a large quantity of food is in a small space. I may add that, from some recent experiments with compressed earth to potted fruit trees, I have a high opinion of its effect, and I fully believe that we have yet much to learn on the subject."

Politeness. How few children think it worth while to be polite to their playmates and friends! By politeness I do not mean a great deal of unnecessary bowing and courtesying, but REMARKABLE Success.-We learn by a that delicate attention to the comfort of without the least apology for such a breach of politeness. Then, perhaps, they interruptthose in the room when they are engaged in conversation, by asking some foolish question, not waiting until an opportunity is given them to speak. Then they are impolite to their playmates-their sisters, if they have any. Instead of assisting when their help is really needed, they leave them to help themselves. How many boys think t beneath them to be polite to a sister!

I have seen some who thought differently, I recollect last winter I used to meet a fine manly lad drawing his sister to school on a sled; her rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes bore testimony that his politeness was not thrown away upon her. She would pat his cheek kindly, and call him her dear kind prother. He would frequently meet boys of his acquaintance who would urge him o leave his sister and go with them to play, His answer always was, "Yes, when I have carried little Emily to school." Do you think that boy was a good son, a good brother? I never saw him impatient when he was walking with his little sister because she could not keep up with him.

He did not give her a sly twitch, as some boys would have done; or frighten her with stories of old men or beggars, till she was afraid of her shadow. No; he was always polite and kind to her. And do you think that he will torget to be polite as he grows older? No, for it will become a habit with him; and the little attentions which cost im nothing, so gratifying to those who receive them, will gain many a friend. Think of this when you are tempted to be rude or selfish, or unkind to those about you; and remember that you lose nothing by being polite. But a stronger motive should influence you-you should "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."-Who is it hath said, "Be ye kind to one Home Happiness. Let not the happy children be disturbed and Norf olk ss. grieved."-[Frederick William III of Prussia.

" The influence of home happiness on the young, is a protection against sin in future life."

Make bright the bearth where children throng In innocence and glee, With smiles of love, the carrolled song,-

The spirit's harmony. The healthful sports, the cheeks that flush,

The mother's fond caress,-Nor let the stateliest father blush

His merry boy to bless. For, far down the vale of life,

When he his lot shall bear, That hallowed gleam shall cheer the strife And gild the clouds of care.

If midnight storms and breakers roar, Its treasured spell shall be A lighthouse 'mid the reeking shore-

The star of memory-

Shall warn him, when the siren's wiles His faltering feet entice;

Make bright the hearth where childhood smiles To keep the man from vice.

The Mother's Song. BY BARRY CORNWALL.

Sleep! -the ghostly winds are blowing: The river is deep, and the tide is flowing To the land where you and I are going! We are going afar, Beyond moon or star,

To the land where the sinless angels are! I lost my heart to your heartless sire; ('Twas melted away by his looks of fire;) Forgot my God, and my father's ire, All for the sake of man's desire:-

But now we'll go Where the waters flow, And make us a bed where none shall know The world is cruel; the world's untrue: Our foes are many; our friends are few: No work, no bread, however we sue!

What is there left for us to do-

But fly-fly, From the cruel sky, And hide in the deepest deeps-and die!

> BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says; "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the Stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach." Dr. PEREIRA, in his famous treatise on "Food and Diet," published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr.

Dr. COMBE, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a diminution of the due quantity of the Gastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia;" and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastric Juice, obtained from the stomachs of living animals, which proved entirely successful.

Dr. GRAHAM, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestive process." Prof. DUNGLISON, of the Jefferson College, Philadelphia, in his great work on Human Physiology, devotes more than fifty pages to an examination of this subject. Dr. JOHN W. DRAPER, Professor of Chemstry in the Medical College of the University of New York, in his "Text Book of Chemistry," page 386, says: "It has been a question whether artificial digestion could be performed-but it is now universally admitted that it may be." Dr. CARPENTER'S standard work on Physiology, which is in the library of every Physician, and is used as a Text Book in all the Colleges, is full of evidence similar to the above, respecting the remarkable Digestive power of Pepsin, and the fact that it may be readily separated from the stomach of the Calf or Ox, and used for experiments in Artificial Digestion, or as a remedy for disease of the Stomach, and de-

Looking glasses for Birds. A correspondent of the Gardeners' Chronicle says :-"The following plan is perfectly efficaclous for scaring birds from fruit and other produce. One of my servants having by chance broken a looking glass, it occurred to me that the broken pieces, suspended by a string, so as to turn freely in every direction, would give the appearance of some thing moving about, which would alarm the birds. I accordingly tried the plan, and found that no bird not even the foo -hardy dare come near. They had attacked my peas; on suspending a few bits of lookingglass amongst them, the marauders left the place. The tomtits attacked my seckle pears, to which they seem very partial. An Angel of the Hearth.

BY FANNY FALES.

They tell me unseen spirits Around about us glide; Beside the stilly waters, Our erring footsteps guide: 'Tis pleasant thus believing Their ministry on earth;

I know an angel sitteth This moment by my hearth. If false lights, on life's waters, To wreck my soul appear;

With fingers upright pointing, She turns me with a tear: Twere base to slight the warning, And count it little worth Of her, the loving angel, That sitteth by my hearth.

She wins me with caresses From Passion's dark defiles; She guides me when I falter, And strengthens me with smiles; It may be, unseen angels Beside me journey forth, I know that one is sitting

This moment by my hearth.

A loving wife. O, brothers, An angel here below: Alas! your eyes are holden Too often till they go; Ye upward look while grieving,

When they have passed from earth; O, cherish well those sitting This moment by thy hearth.

LINES.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN ERYANT.

The May sun sheds an amber light On new-leaved woods and lawns between. But she who, with a smile more bright, Welcomed and watched the springing green Is in her grave,

The fair white blossoms of the wood In groups beside the pathway stand; But one, the gentle and the good, Who cropped them with a fairer hand, Is in her grave, Low in her grave,

Upon the woodland's morning airs The small birds' mingled notes are flung; But she whose voice, more sweet than theirs, Once bade me listen while they sung, Is in her grave, -Low in ber grave.

That music of the early year Brings tears of anguish to my eyes; My heart aches when the flowers appear, For then I think of her who lies Within her grave, Low in her grave.

And now he has gone, Requiescat in pace!" The following was taken from the same church yard as the first: "Here lies the man Peter and Mary his wife;

United in death, though divided in life." The following derives its chief oddity from the peculiarity of the rhyme, and the substitution of the word " perpendicular" for "upright."

"Here lies the body of Deacon David Auricular, Who in the ways of God walked perpendicular. The lady mentioned in the next epitaph must have been a warm advocate of "woman's rights" - quite a Mrs. Caudle, in short-and the lines were

FARMERS' DEPARTMENT.

LOW HEADED FRUIT TREES .- By having low-headed fruit trees, the sun, which is, perhaps, in our hot and dry summers, the cause of more disease and destruction in fruit trees than all other diseases together, is kept from almost scalding the sap, as it does in long, naked trunks and limbs. The limbs and leaves of a tree should always effectually shade the trunk and keep it cool. The leaves, only should have plenty of sun and light; they can bear and profit by it .-If trees were suffered to branch out low say within one or two feet of the ground, we should hear very much less of 'fireblight,' frozen sap light,' black spots, and the like. The ground is always looser, moister, and cooler under a low-branching tree, than under a higher one. Grass and weeds do not grow a hundredth part so rank and readily, and mulching becomes unnecessary. The wind has not half the power to rack, twist, and break the tree, and shake off the fruit-a matter of no inconsiderable consequence. The trees will be much longer lived, and more prolific, beautiful, and profitable. The trees are more easily rid of destructive insects, the fruit is much less damaged by falling, and the facilities for gathering it are much greater; there is less danger in climbing and less in breaking limbs. The trees require less prunning, scraping, and washing; and the roots are protected from the plough, which is too often made to tear and mutilate them.

Kossuth and Waldo Emerson.

Kossuth's capability to adapt his thoughts and language to every variety of time, place and audience has been often remarked. The following extracts from the address of Ralph Waldo Emerson at Concord, and from Kossuth's reply, will illustrate the Magyar's genius in adaptation. Emerson said:

Last Night Our Nellie Died.

BY ELLEN LOUISE.

Oh, gently gleamed the moon last night, And all the stars shone bright, And swung and danced within their gyres In floods of golden light. And gaily tripped the fairy feet The wind swept grass-plot o'er, Where moon and star ray brightest fell,

About the cottage door, The wind swept through the linden-trees, And o'er the gleaming waves, And played amid the cypress boughs, Above the dead one's graves. And heavy with the dews of night The fily-bells bent low, And rung their chiming symphonies, In cadence soft and low.

The earth was bright above around, But still the shadow fell, It stole within the cottage door, And chilled us with its spell. I long had thought the moonbeams loved In golden light to play, Around the velvet cushioned couch Where Nellie, dreaming, lay.

She wore within her golden hair A mesh of changeful light, And mingled with her blue eye's sheen A gleam of spirit-might— But fairer grew her brow last night, More pure her eye's bright ray, Until she passed--my beautiful!--Like sunset clouds away. Then know I why the burning stars Swung wild within their gyres, And why the moon on hill and dell, Lit up her vestal fires - . For many a one was left on earth, The good, and pure, and gay-As she who passed away.

And wildly swung the golden stars, And glad the moon shone down In joy, at the jewel that passed from earth, To brighten our Father's crown. I know not why, at dim midnight, The angels downward came, And stole within our cottage door,

And quenched our love-lights flame. But fainter grew my Nellie's smile, More cold her clasping hand, As o'er the icy stream she crossed, That bounds the mystic land-And close I shut my aching eyes, And inward on my soul, The tears that deathless love had wept,

'Gan lava like to roll! Till downwards on the wild night-winds, Was borne a wonderous strain, And from my heart the gloom clouds past, The madness from my brain-And 'mid the golden stars that pave The floor of Paradise, A gleam shone on my earth dimmed soul,

From Nellie's own blue eyes. But gaily rose the morning's sun, With rays of molton gold, While spirit hands around my heart The grief-shade seemed to fold-For all too gaily gleams the light On scenes of joy, and pride;

It faileth coldly on my heart-

Parent !- who with a speechless feeling, O'er thy cradled treasure bent, Every year new claims revealing, Hast thou seen that blossom blighted By a sear untimely frost?

All thy labor unrequited?

Every glorious promise lost?

Wife !-with agony unspoken, Shrinking from affliction's rod, Is thy prop, thine idol broken, ly trusted next to God? Husband! -- o'er thy hopes a mourner, Of thy chosen friend ashamed, Hast thou to her burial borne her, Unrepented, unreclaimed?

Child!-in tender weakness turning. To thy heaven, appointed guide, Doth a lava poison burning Tinge with gall affection's tide? Still that orphan burden bearing, Darker than the grave can show, Dost thou how thee down despairing, To a heritage of wee?

Country!-on thy sons depending, Strong in manhood, bright in bloom, Hast thou seen thy pride descending Shrouded -to the unhonored tomb? Rise on eagle pinion soaring— Rise !—like one of God-like birth,— And Jehovah's aid imploring, Sweep the spoiler from the earth!

Another Scientific Wonder!

GREAT CURE FOR DV SPEPSEA! Dr. J. S. Houghton's PEPSIN.

THE TRUE Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice,

Prepared from RENNET, or the fourth Sto mach of the Ox, after directions of BARON HEBIG, the great Physiological Chemis , by J. S. HOUGH-TON, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDIGE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION, and DEBIL-IIY, Curing after Nature's own method, by naure's own agent, the Gastric Juice.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the stomgesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Life, and place it upon their shelf, and when the CIAL DIGESTIVE FLUID, precisely like the Cough can be cured in a week if taken at the SUBSTITUTE for it. By the aid or the preand DYSPEPSIA are removed, just as they would be by a healthy stomach. It is doing ITY, EMACIATION, NERVOUS DECLINE, and DYSPEPTIC CONSUMPTION, supposed to be on the verge of the grave. The Scientific without checking it. For sale in Quincy by Mrs. Evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree CURIOUS and REMARKABLE. Scientific Evidence!

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says; "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the Stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

"Food and Diet," published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of prepara-

Dr. GRAHAM, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet" says: "It is a remarka. on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of and for sale very low, at I. W MUNROE'S ble fact in physiology, that the stomachs of anithem in no wise different from the natural digestive process."

Prof. DUNGLISON, of the Jefferson College Philadelphia, in his great work on Human Paysology, devotes more than fifty pages to an exammation of this subject. His experiments with Dr. Beaumont, on the Gastrie Juice obtained from the fiving human stomach, and from animals, are well known. "In all cases," he says, "digestion occurred as perfectly in the artificial as in the natural digestions. Dr. JOHN W. DRAPER, Professor of Chem-

As a Dyspepsia Curer, Dr. Houghton's Pepsin has produced the most marvellous effects, in curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption. It is impossible to give the details of cases in the limits of this advertisement;

It is a great Nervous Antidote, and particularly useful for tendency to Billious disorder, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, or badly treated Fever and Ague, and the evil effects of Quinine, Mercury, and other drugs upon the Digestive Or gans, after a long sickness. Also, for excess in eating, and the too free use of ardent spirits. It almost reconciles Health with Intemperance.

Old Stomach Complaints.

There is no form of Old Stomach Complaints which it does not seem to reach and remove at once. No matter how bad they may be, it gives instant relief! A single dose removes all the unpleasant symptoms; and it only needs to be repeated for a short time to make those good effects permanent. Purity of blood and vigor of body follow at once. It is particularly excellent in cases of Nausea, Vomiting, Cramps, Soreness of the pit of the Stomach, distress after eating, low, cold state of the Blood, Heaviness, Low ness of Spirits, Despondency, Emaciation, Weakness, tendency to Insanity, Suicide, &c. Dr. Houghton's Pepsin, is sold by nearly all dealth eers in fine drugs and Popular Medicines, throughout the United States. It is prepared in Powder and in Fluid form-and in Prescription vials for the use of Physicians. Private Circulars for the use of Physicians, may be obtained of Dr. Houghton or his Agents, describing the whole process of preparation, and giving the authorities upon which the claims of this new remedy are based. As it is not a secret remedy, no objection can be raised against its use by Physicians in respectable standing and regular practice. Price ONE DOLLAR per

The Curcolio, that curse of all plum trees. has taxed the ingenuity of horticulturists in securing immunity from its ravages for many years, and new plans for their destruction are constantly being proposed. The following we take from the correspondence of the Boston Journal :- " A gentleman in Reading says, take cotton batting, put three circles, six to twelve inches apart, around your plumb trees. He caught sixty in the first circle in twenty-four hours : in the second circle but few had got so high. He found this a sure preventative and got lots of fine plums last year, the first time for many years. My practice has been to pay the children six cents a quart for all the windfalls, and keep the ground clean. The windfalls contain the maggot, as with apples and all other fruits, from which they go into the ground, and the curculio is propagated. The Presidential Campaign is opened,-The National Convention of Democrats met in Baltimore on Tuesday. It was numerously attended. Every State was represented by its complement except the State of South Carolina. Gen. Commander volunteered to represent that entire State, but the Convention declined this modest offer.

The Hon J. Davis of Indiana was elected the President of the Convention. The rules of proceedings of the house of Representatives in Congress were adopted.

A question arose whether or not the Convention should first build a platform and then make nonmations of candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency or vice versa. The Convention determined to make the nominations first, on the ground, we suppose, that those candidates would readily adjust themselves to any platform.

Mr. Rantoul of this State was denied a seat in the Convention. He dared to say even in Congress that the Fugitive Slave Law was unconstitutional, "Off his head." as the Duke of Gloster or somebody else said.

Two Free Soilers, one from Vermont and another from Maine were compelled to walk the plank. That was no place for Northern heretics.

Delegates from Georgia representing themselves as Union Democrats had leave to withdraw. They had joined the Whigs at stratagem. Such was virtually the decision caused an alarm of fire to be given on Mon effectual steps to enforce the enactment of a and their descendants, the world is indebt-

The Ferest Trees.

BY ELIZA COOK. Up with your heads, ye silvan lords, Wave proudly in the breeze.

For our cradie bands and coffin boards Must come from the forest trees.

We bless ve for your summer shade, When our weak limbs fail and tire; Our thanks are due for your winter aid, When we pile the bright log fire.

Oh! where would be our rule on the sea, And the fame of the sailor band, Were it not for the oak and cloud-crowned pit That sprung on the quiet land?

When the ribs and the masts of the good ship live And weather the gale with ease, Take his glass from the tar who will not give
A health to the forest trees.

Ye lend to life its earliest joy, And wait on its latest page; In the circling hoop for the rosy boy, And the easy chair for age,

The old man totters on his way With footsteps short and slow, But without the stick for his help and stay Not a yard's length could he go

The hazel twig in the stripling's hand Hath magic power to please; And the trusty staff and slender wand Are plucked from the forest trees.

Scientific Evidence!

Animal Chemistry, says; "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may Moore.) in the form of a will years before his be readily prepared from the macous membrane worthless of the Stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

Dr. PEREIRA, in his famous treatise on "Food and Diet," published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparaion. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Dr. COMBE, in his valuable writings on the Dr. COMBE, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a and Pine Bureaus, Toilet and Work Tables. diminution of the due quantity of the Gastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of steads, Tables, Chairs, Stoves, Sinks, &c., cheap Dyspepsia;" and he states that "a distinguished for cash, by professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastric Juice, obtained from the stomachs of living animals, which proved entirely successful.

Dr. GRAHAM, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of aniinsuls, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural diges-

Prof. DUNGLISON, of the Jefferson College tion of this subject. His experiments with Dr. Beaumont, on the Gastric Juice obtained from the living human stomach, and from animals, are well known. "In all cases," he says, 1a2 disc't "digestion occurred as perfectly in the artificial as in the natural digestions.

Dr. JOHN W. DRAPER, Professor of Chem

lstry in the Medical Col ege of the University of New York, in his "Text Book of Chemistry," page 386, says: "It has been a question whether artificial digestion could be performed-but it is now universally admitted that it may be." Dr. CARPENTER'S standard work on Phy siology, which is in the library of every Physician, and is used as a Text Book in all the Colleges, is full of evidence similar to the above, respecting the remarkable Digestive power of Pepsin, and the fact that it may be readily sepatated from the stomach of the Calf or Ox, and used for experiments in Artificial Digestion, or as a remedy for disease of the Stomach, and deficient secretion of Gastric Juice.

The candidates of the National Demoand King with enthusiasm and a triumph ant tone. They regard the overthrow of Cass, Buchanan, Douglas, and all those men who were chiefly instrumental in the passage of the compromise measures, so called as a just retribution and an event deserving public attention and commendation. On the other hand, the Albany Argus and Washington Union commend Pierce and King for their well known devotion to the compromise measures and the Union, and redict their election as a matter of certainty. There is no denying that these nominations have been taken up by the Democracy with great cordiality and a determination to bring the Federal Government back to the Democratic track. We shall see,

But this is not all, it to several in past volumes and numbers of if they wish to save an attorney's fee. its pioneer namesake-but here the resemblance stops. The May number of Lawson's imitation of Hunt, contains less than one half the quantity of matter given monthly by the latter, and that too, made up without any of that nice discrimination, or that admirable system of classification and arrangement, so apparent on every page of Mr. Hunt's comprehensive work, and which has in a great measure, rendered it the most convenient publication of the age for "present and future reference." The editor of Lawson's Magazine, says, in his introductory address:- "The commerce of the United States, and its mercantile relations with this country, (England) are so vast and important as to render any information bearing upon it highly desirable and interesting, and he will endeavor to keep his readers well informed on the subject." This it can, and we presume intends to accomplish by liberal quotations from Hunt. The fact is, England "wants" as Mr Gilbart has it "only a Freeman Hunt." Judging from this first effort, we are inclined to think that quincy, in said County had on the 22d dry of November last at So'clock, A M, being the time in a short time afterwards he began thus eason with himself: "If a sparrow could then me thus, I may be sure that what I was going to do was very wicked." And now he worked with greater diligence then ever, nor once again trusted himself to gaze on the fruit which had so nearly led him to commit so great a fault. The sparrows chirped again as he was leaving the garden, but he no longer fled at the sound.

Boetry. Lilly Lee.

BY ALICE CAREY.

I did love thee, Lilly Lee, As the petrel loves the sea, As the wild bee loves the thyme, As the poet loves the rhyme, As the blossom loves the dew-But the angels loved thee too.

Once, when twilight's dying head Prest her golden sheeted bed, And the silent stars drew near, White and tremulous with fear, While the night's repelling frown, Strangled the young zephyr down, Told I all my love to thee, Hoping, fearing Lilly Lee.

Fluttered then her gentle breast, With a troubled sweet unrest, Like a bird too near the net, Which the fowler's hand bath set; But her mournful eyes the whie, And her spirit speaking smile, To d me love could not depart Death's pale arrow from the heart.

Hushing from that very day Passion pleading to have sway, Folding close her little hand, Watched I with her till the sand Crumbling from beneath her tread, Lowered her sofily to the dead, Where in peace she waits for me, Sweetest, dearest Lilly Lee.

As the chased hart loves the wave, As blind silence loves the brave, As the penitent loves prayer, Loved I, and still love I thee, Angel-stolen Lidy Lee.

On a Contrary Wife.

A waggish chap, whose vixen wife Called out his neighbors all around. And to d 'em that his spouse was drowned, And, spite of search, could not be found; He knew, he said, the very nook Where she had tumbled in the brook, And he had dragged along the shore Above the place a mile or more.  Above the place!" the people cried; . ROXEURY, June, 1852. GENTLEMEN,-I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 21st ult., in which you refer to our late official relations in words of kindwess and couresy for which I am deeply sensible.

When four years since I accepted the office of Sheriff of Norfolk County from Gov. Briggs, it was my aim in the appointment of Deputies to select energetic and careful men, who would discharge their duties faithfully and with proper regard to all persons with whom they were to transact business. It gives me great pleasure to say, that during he time, up to my removal, no action of any kind has been commenced against me for ny neglect or inefficiency on your part, and that all your financial transactions have been ischarged with strict fidelity and exactness.

I am happy to say that you have severally acquitted yourselves to my entire satisfacon. And I have yet to learn of any diseatisfaction from the inhabitants of our beloved County of Norfolk.

You have been pleased to allude to the harmony that has existed between us in our official relations, notwithstanding our known differences of opinion in relatior, to the politics of the State and Nation. I avail myself this occasion to say that while I respect your political opinions frankly and honestly rowed, I have on all occasions and fairly penly expressed my own strong preference for Whig policy and principles,

I have never been in favor of proscription or opinion's sake, and you were all selected for Deputies without regard to your opinns, all of you enjoying political opinions liffering from my own.

earty wishes for your prosperity in whatr position you may hereafter occupy .-And I am suce that if your duties therein xactness and fidelity which have distin nished you as Daputy Sheriffs of this Coun ty, you cannot fail to be entirely successful, Most Respectfully,

Your obliged and obt. svt. THOMAS ADAMS.

To Charles Endicott, B. S. Farrington, Nathan Jones, Silas Binney, George Alden, A. P. Welcome, E-qs. Norice .- The subscriber having disposed his Drug store and fixtures under the Town Hall in Quincy, hereby respectfully troduces to his unnerous patrons and the ublic generally, his gentlemanly and very worthy successor, Dr. George W. Whiting of Boston. Dr. Whiting comes highly recomnended by his Boston friends-he has served a long apprenticeship in some of the first pothecary establishments in that city, and in addition to being an accomplished and entist. is also well read in the Theory and Practice of Medicine .-Without attempting any compliments to our successor, we leave him as he has already stepped into our shoes, confident that his merits and accomplishments will speedily walk him into public fevor.

In connexion with this notice, we beg leave to state that the Post Office is now removed from the Town House to the building adjoining Mr. Briesler's store, lately occupied by Mr. Wm. B. Learned, jeweller.

Young people in our favored land have very little idea of the sufferings of the poor in England and elsewhere. The following little sketch will give them some idea of the

Upon one of my visits to the various ragged schools of the metropolis, I became much interested in a lad of ten or eleven years of age, with a frank, open countenance; though somewhat dirty, and dressed in a suit of rags. He was reading busily in his Testament, and would stop occasionally and ask such curious questions of his teacher that I could but smile. His " practical observations" on certain portions of Scripture, if clothed in eloquent language, would have done honor to men of education, There was a free-heartedness in him that gleamed out through all his rags and dirt, and I sat down by him to ask him some qu stions.

"Where do you live, I asked, and how?" "I live any where I can," he replied, "and simost how I can."

" But," said I what is your trade or business. What do you generally do for a liv-

RANGEMENT ___ commencing May &

From ' Household Words.' A Cry from the Dust!

Not less immortal, that from birth Not less a daughter, that my sire Not less a sister, that my brother Fled from a broken-hearted mother. God made me gentle; hunger came, God made me modest; who could dare To taint what he had stamped as fair? God made me beautiful and true; I sickened, and I loathed the food Bestowed with taunts and jibings rade. I went in vain from door to door; I begged for work-I asked no more. Work-work-methought they might have given, And earned another prayer in heaven. Work-work-they heeded not my cry; God, too, seemed silent, up on high. I would have worked all night all day, To keep the hunger-fiend away. I went again from door to door; This time I begged for bread-once more. They spurned me thence; 'twas then I fell, And bade Hope, Virtue, Heaven, farewell.
